As some of you may know from my other thread I'll be in Central PA next week and where I'll be staying is close to Bald Eagle Creek. Anyone have any experience on this creek? I was thinking of trying the areas immediately below the the lake for warmwater species(although I guess it has trout too?), but any info on the upper creek for trout or even the lake is great too. Seems like it would be a quick and easy trip close to where I'm staying, and seems like the only option around if I get sick of catching trout haha 😊

Thanks
