backpack and bike, perfect for Lehigh River travel.

If you're an old geezer like me you carry a wading staff which is perfect for poking around in front of you so you don't step on a serpent, or just get a long branch and "feel" your way down the bank, this is prime time for snakes as mentioned above. I'll also toss some small stones down to spook out any snakes that might be on the banks.

A good length of strong rope can come in handy as well.
