
Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Durango/San Juan National Forest

Re: Durango/San Juan National Forest

Author: : lestrout

Date: : 2013/6/21 21:46:44

URL:

raft - I'm more into the ffishing than hiking, so I drive the 1 hr south into NM and hit the San Juan. It's combat ffishing, but the trouts are large and numerous. Going west the top dozen miles of the Dolores coming out of McPhee Reservoir has had some spectacular years - check with the local shop before you take the drive. There are interesting cliff dweller artifacts there, not Alpine at all. North of course is Telluride - again check to see which of the beautiful streams are not too affected by mine waste, but up high there should be less of that problem.

tl
les