Hmm, well at least you got it fixed. I have the Three Forks in an 8wt and am very pleased with it so far for it being a $50 rod. Caught a bunch of steelhead and carp with it this spring/summer and had no issues, except the cork isn't the best quality but hey it's like the cheapest fly rod out there so I didn't expect much. I believe the reel seat is different on the 7 and 8wts though.

This issue happened to me with a spinning rod a while back, but I didn't bother fixing it and just retired the rod.
