Thought i would share these on here, i dont post on this site too often, but starting in the fall you will be seeing my name more and more posting on here. I raise hackle chickens, right now these are my two main breeders. Im very small scale currently but i am incubating eggs and have hatches about every month but recently got another incubator allowing me to hatch eggs about every week. I hope to eventually become a medium sized grower but that is way down the road. So i hope you enjoy my birds and i do sell full skins necks and capes when they are available (next will be in late winter).

Thanks,
Tight lines,
Evan
