No need to send someone in after us, but thanks again for the offer! Ended up on plan B as plan A was completely posted off in its headwaters. Found the gate...but it had a bunch of signs on it that led us to believe the landowner didn't want anyone back there. Maybe that property has changed hands since you were there or the landowner has had a change of heart. In the end plan B was probably worse terrain wise...we're no worse for the wear, although a few Brookies may have sore lips tomorrow.
