I know of one larger fish, over 18", growing to over 20 last time I caught it, that was caught by three fisherman, two who had pics of it, because of its scar. And this fish seemed perfectly healthy each time I saw it.

I actually caught a fish with one eye multiple times(2 year period) that kept getting larger and larger and looked fine. These fish keep getting caught because I think browns just stay in a pool for quite awhile.

So, this is anecdotal, but, at least fly hooked fish look to be no worse for wear to me over years.
