I know there is browns somewhere but my question is: how did they get there?

Brown trout were introduced to PA in the 1800s and have been here ever since. They are very widely distributed in PA and have been for a long time.

The question is similar to where did these: carp, starlings, English sparrows come from? The answer in each case is that they were introduced a long time ago, established populations, and their populations have been maintained by natural reproduction ever since.
