

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : simulated hatch

Re: simulated hatch

Author: : Stevie-B

Date: : 2013/6/24 11:31:43

URL:

There could be a couple of things going on. If the fish is feeding opportunistically, it may take a couple of drifts over his head to catch his attention. It could also be that the fish is looking for something to come down a certain feeding lane. You cast towards it and even tho you are close to his lane, he won't take it. You make more casts until you hit it just right with no drag and the he takes it.

Just my $0.02.