I bought some 6lb and 8lb for my spinning rods. This stuff is in unbelievably strong...almost unbreakable. I used the 6lb for fly tippet the other day while going after largemouth. Only problem I had was getting snagged while on our boat...I couldn't break off the fly...I actually pulled us to the submerged log I was stuck on and ended up cutting the leader. I see they make a 4lb flourocarbon. I'm wondering how it would work for tippet for larger trout.
