Hi All,

I recently purchased a fly rod and with the help of some local flyfishing guys and some helpful tips on this site, I was able to catch my first native brookie on a fly. I headed down to Logan Run in Forest County on Saturday. It was awesome! I found out quickly that it is all about the roll cast and sneaking up on the holes when fishing these small streams. The first brookie that hit my fly was tiny, but it didn't matter to me. I was so pumped to actually catch one. I stopped counting after I hooked about a dozen or so. most of them were 3 inches or less, but I was able catch 3 that were 5 or 6 inches. I had a great time. Thanks for all of the helpful tips that you guys post on this forum. I can't wait to go out again. I've posted a couple pictures.
