Fished my local in Harriman State Park in NY, and had one of the greatest days on the water ever. The cicadas are intensifying up there and I've been fishing size 8 cicada imitations. Normally you'll catch a handful of seven or eight inchers, but today I hooked three absolute slobs, landing two of them. The biggest was about 17 inches and was one of the best fights I've ever had fishing, period. Three pools later I landed a 14 incher, just as I was already feeling like the luckiest dude ever.
