PFBC Biologists conducted their annual survey of adult SMBs in the main stem of the Susky in Sept 2012.

The short version is that there was no significant change.

Adult bass catch rates remain below the historic average but the 2012 numbers are about typical for the period since about 2004 when the bass problems became more evident. Hopefully, these numbers aren't the new normal - will be interesting to see the YOY numbers as YOY numbers are usually good predictors of fishing 5+ years in the future.
