RE: tricos

Its a love/hate thing with me. When the hatch is on there is no question as to what the trout want. The rises can be exciting to watch.

But I hate that its so hard to follow your fly. But if you have drag you can see that. And if a trout does take the fly you can see that too.

But the flies are hard to see, even parachutes(and yes there are size 24 trico parachutes). At least on the Little Lehigh the creek is small enough you don't have to make long casts so that makes seeing the fly a little easier than it would be on bigger water.
