

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Old South Bend bamboo fly rod

Re: Old South Bend bamboo fly rod

Author: : Fredlay

Date: : 2013/6/28 3:57:56

URL:

You not getting the point in this venting here. I'm just venting is all.

I'm not putting women down at all and I agree as well.

During WWII women was working making shells/ammo while men was off fighting the war. The women that wasn't was working in factory's and other to feed their families while the husbands was off at war fighting. For men to send money home to their wives and children was pony express not priority mail as today.

40% of men was force to go to battle wasn't a option to do so.

When the rod company buiders/employees went to war the wifes stepped in to complete as hold the fort for the rod companies.

That is where we get the women builders today and where it started.

During that time/era. Womens rights wasn't in affect as is now.

A rod built by a woman was frowned upon and would not sell. That's why so many rod companies to a fall. "Sales".

During that time/era.