Odizz,

The surveys are conducted mid-year but the report may not be online for some time. Mike may give us the straight skinny before the official report is up.

Glad to see you're catching bass in that part of the river. A 10" smallie (if you're not already aware of this) is not a young of the year fish however but probably from the YOY class from 2009. River SMBs in PA are very slow growing fish and typically take about five years to reach a foot in length.
