elonDO,

Nice job! You've got some really nice looking ties there. I would also like to thank LouM for the heads up on the Stealth Bomber pattern. I had never heard of that pattern before either. I cranked out a couple this afternoon and they are sort of fun to tie. I was out WW fishing this evening just before dark and was bustin' them underneath on a Murray's Hellgramite pattern. The water was a bit high and still really off color from the recent rain events. I really wanted to try the Stealth Bomber but there was no surface activity at all. I can't wait to fish 'em some evening when the bass are working the top!
