

---

Subject: : Fly Fishing Events and Meet-ups

Topic: : Newbie Brush-up Day - June 22

Re: Newbie Brush-up Day - June 22

Author: : mcwillja

Date: : 2013/7/1 14:27:06

URL:

Quote:

krayfish wrote:

If you every fish the Methodist pool on the WB of the D and during May, you will see the old guy from Canada. He spends and entire month fishing a 400 stretch. He does it with a 10'-11'bbamboo rod and silk line. He does nothing but swing wets. My buddy Josh was talking to him and he insisted that Josh cast his rod. Josh is a pretty good caster. Took a couple of casts and reeled in. As he handed to the guy, he said "oh my God. That thing sucks". LMAO. Knead offered a go with it and said "no thanks". They make cordless phones. Don't expect me to go old school and get a corded one. 🏠

That guy was parked there (methodist pool) last week when i was there. I have talked to him before. The poor guy fishes the most hours on the river and catches the least amount of fish. I saw him on the Oatka creek in Rochester, NY last year and spoke with him in the parking lot. He was in awe of my hatch reel and tippet spool...LOL. I thought that guy was a lunatic but the more I think about it he has about the best life someone who loves to flyfish could have.