

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Bennetts Branch of the Sinnemahoning

Re: Bennetts Branch of the Sinnemahoning

Author: : Mountainbrookie

Date: : 2013/7/1 20:43:11

URL:

This is from the article linked in this thread already and what I was referring to...

Quote:

Significantly, the water flowing from the deep mines is a cool 52 degrees F., perfect for supporting a wild-trout fishery.

John Arway, executive director of the Pennsylvania Fish & Boat Commission, called the prospect "unique."

"We can't chill water for a trout stream, so we don't get many opportunities to create a wild-trout fishery," he said. "This is a major development for the northcentral region."