

---

Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Yellow Breeches (Allenberry), Cumberland Co, 6-29-13

Re: Yellow Breeches (Allenberry), Cumberland Co, 6-29-13

Author: : TimRobinsin

Date: : 2013/7/1 23:06:55

URL:

was there today. not sure where but apparently you are trespassing at your own risk but fishing is permitted as per the BIG sign at the parking area.

didn't have much time before dark but landed one, apparently not wild, brown. Missed a bunch more all on a huge white wulff.

Temps were high for sure. If I had to guess they were in the 70's easily. I was fishing two spring creeks just an hour or so earlier and I was wet wading. The first stream was small but so cold it hurt! I temped that stream at 58 degrees! The next one is a well known spring creek and was slightly warmer. I did not temp but would say in the 65 degree area. The pissed-britches was way warm compared to these. It was nice to wade but definitely keep an eye on the temps if your going out there.

not many bugs to be found but on the one spring creek the fish were on the hopper!