yeah definitely a very informative thread right here. i love being 3 steps behind the front guys, by the time i have questions you guys are already talking about it. also the great thing of living in the great white north(well almost, new york), our hatches are weeks later. it's sort of like seeing the future!

though after my brief moment at the newbie jam, i thought i was done with the tricos, well now my buddy and i will be heading to the kettle creek vasinity and i'm thinkin i better have some of these tiny things with me.
