Thanks for all the advice the main reason i want a kit is so i can order everything all at once and not have to wait for separate packages, and look up every tool you need because honestly i dont know. I do have 2 cats with about 6 colors between the two of them. The first fly i would want to tie would be a prince nymph because it always seems to catch fish for me. I probably wont have any spending money for a couple of weeks just trying to get ideas. Thanks for all the help.

i believe gander has a wapsi kit for about fifty bucks.

for a prince you need brown and white goose biot,that might not come in a kit.sometimes kits do have biot though.

i should tell you,when i started tying,my catch rate went up too.
