I have one just so I can look like the cool guys on the Simms website. lol. Mine is not treated with any insect repellent so I can't speak to that. I used it more in colder weather since I found it to be rather warm around my neck when it starts to get hot out. I pretty much always have it with me as I am trying, finally, to be more aware of the potential hazards of sun exposure.

I decided to get one after a one day bonefish trip in the Bahamas. My guide, who was very dark skinned, wore one the entire time.
