we'll agree to disagree. why you'd fish over 10 inch fish with a 24 fly and not use the lightest tippet available is a mystery to me. when I'm rolling directly downstream I want to noodle that line out with a fine tippet. ive found drag and tippet stiffness are related. I rarely fish over those bruisers on the LL. Just don't see the 6x loyalty but then I've only been at this for forty years and I'm a chump for clever marketing.
