I was up at the Little J this morning around Spruce Creek. Temps are holding pretty steady around 63-65 all day. I never got a temp above 65 in the last two weeks. We have some pretty nasty storms rolling through this evening that will probably bring it up to unfishable levels. Last I checked it was running close to 500cfs so it's up pretty good. This morning it was still off color and fishing was uneventful.
