"The Anglers Art" (RIP) used to hold an annual book sale, and the first few events were held at a venue in Carlisle. On July 6, 1991 (coincideNtally) I attended the event and purchased both of Charlie Fox's books (secondhand of course). My copy of "Rising Trout" is a second edition but "this Wonderful World of Trout" is a first. Mr. Fox, who attended the event (at an advanced age), was kind enough to sign both books in a shakey script. I paid 20 dollars each at that time for two books that I consider essential pieces of PA ff history. Though I haven't read them in decade, I recall they were enjoyable. Speaking for myself, and my near-obsession with historic ff books, I would not be averse to paying 50 or 60 dollars for a signed first edition of either book. I really miss the Anglers Art.
