

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Susquehanna - Adult Bass Study for 2012

Re: Susquehanna - Adult Bass Study for 2012

Author: : dc410

Date: : 2013/7/7 16:41:44

URL:

My wife and I spent a few hours today on the Susky on a pontoon boat out of Lake Clarke Marina in York County. We were fishing artificials (twisters and the like with spinning gear). I didn't feel comfortable trying to fish with a fly rod off of the boat with 6 of us on board. The water level was still high and very murky. Fishing was slow but we did manage to pick up a few smallies in the shaded areas (tight to the bank) on the York County side. These fish were in the 8-9" range and fought well and appeared to be very healthy. We also were catching some bluegills and redbreast sunnies. I did the best fishing a Clouser swimming nymph with a split shot on my spinning outfit, the closest thing to flyfishing that I could pull off for the day.