Kray does have a point. I as well can throw heavy stuff with my. 3wt m-series, it isnt the prettiest especially with the trout It line I have on it. But I can still move a double weighted nymph rig and a thing a ma bobber just fine.

Heck I landed a 14.5" brown on it, to me the scariest part was the 6x tippet I had on it. But on that other hand the soft medium action of the rod took a lot of shock each time the fish tried darting.

Moral of the story is the only thing I would like to change about that rod is maybe dropping it down to 7-7'6" vs the 8'3" that it is. Thus why im in love with that 6'6" 4wt.
