Nice pictures. Good report. The west is great. I leave Saturday for Colorado. This will be my first trip to Colorado. I've been in other states out west, but not Colorado. First, I'm going to Rocky Mountain National Park for three days chasing Greenbacks. After that I'm off to the Green River in Utah for two days. After that I'm headed to Hot Sulphur Springs, CO to fish the Colorado River and Williams Fork for my final two days. I can't wait.

Did you check your gear or did you carry it on? I'm just curious if you did and how that went. Everyone says it should be fine for me to carry on my rods, reels, and flies, but it makes me nervous. I wouldn't know what to do if they didn't allow me to do that since my other stuff will already be checked and probably in the plane. I always checked my luggage before, but I want everything in my possession on the plane this time.

It doesn't look real smoky out there. I was concerned that I would be seeing some smoke with all the fires they have had.
