

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Pine Creek watershed probable issue

Re: Pine Creek watershed probable issue

Author: : PASKIINGSUCKS

Date: : 2013/7/9 16:06:33

URL:

So I take it this stuff is less resilient than say zebra mussels?? I mean I realize it's a whole different organism. Just wondering because I live around the green lane res and they have that mandatory quarantine for the mussels. They make you hang your boat for a week before you can use it. Sounds like this stuff is gone as soon as it dries up. Obviously I'm not exactly a science major, just curious as an avid boater and fisherman.

Hold on, I'm drafting up a goose footwash right now actually.