It has little to do with your mindset when you catch more fish alone, one person flailing around will spook fewer fish than groups fishing together. I do enjoy a burger and a beverage with my pals after it gets dark but stay the hell away from me when I'm on the water. I fish with an old timer up in New Hampshire, he turns 79 I think this year, and that man still fishes hard and fishes alone even when we go out together. Some of youse might know Dave Baker.
