everyones thoughts are pretty much the same as i had. I usually fish alone because most of my buddies dont like to go deep in the woods where i like to go. I dont ever think about the "what if", but im only 25 im sure that will change with age. The thing that gets me when fishing with someone else is, if they have a different rig than what im using i will rethink what im doing and spend more time messing around with gear than actually fishing.
