I usually fish on weekdays - and many times, I have to go alone - or not go at all.

I choose to go alone - have been doing it for quite awhile now. I've never lived my life being afraid to do something I really enjoy, because something bad might happen.

Agree with DFG. Be careful, tell someone where and when you will be back. Like rrt wrote in another thread - when you talk to your wife, add an hour or two so you will return "early" or even stay a little later without much strife. Also, take your fully charged cell phone, have a first-aid kit in you vehicle, etc.....but most of all, enjoy your day of solitude out on the stream.
