Smallmouth feed on baitfish all season long. As you get into summer, smallies will feed on baitfish in the early morning and later in the evening. Durring the day, the day invertebrates seem to work best (especially crayfish). Try a Clouser minnow through a riffel predawn or just after sunset, hang on! I've been exclusivly fishing poppers for smallmouth since the begining of June. Not because they work better than other flies, I'm addicted to the surface action!! Some days are good on the popper, others are not.
