Have you been bathing in there again ?

Maybe this isn't a bad idea (seriously).

It'd be cool if the fly shops up there - Big Meadows, Slate Run Tackle, and McConnell's - could set up gear wash stations at their respective shops, and/or streamside.

Wouldn't cost much to set up, and they could provide educational material and advise to help prevent angler spreading of this invasive.

It'd also promote visiting these shops, and benefit them from the increased exposure. Working together on this would show a united front in protecting the watershed, and help prevent the spread of didymo to other watersheds.

Sandfly would be uniquely qualified to set up a waterfowl washing station too. 😊
