

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Starter Hook Assortment

Re: Starter Hook Assortment

Author: : jeremymcon

Date: : 2013/7/12 20:41:42

URL:

Yea I was referred to Allen hooks by someone on the forum too. I actually placed an order when they had that 50 percent off sale the other day. It was awesome! Hooks for $1.25 a pack! I think if you know what platters you want to tie, you can just choose your hooks that way.

Get some 3xl streamer hooks for wooly buggers, standard nymph hooks, scud hooks (I like the straight eyes - I find down eye scud hooks difficult to tie on) , standard dry fly hooks, and maybe some 6xl streamer hooks for bucktails if you're interested in them. I think you'll know what sizes you want to tie. I would recommend making sure you have a few larger size nymph and scud hooks (10 or 12) - its much easier to tie larger nymphs when you first start out!