
Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Few Bass Flies

Few Bass Flies

Author: : SBecker

Date: : 2013/7/14 21:38:54

URL:

It takes me awhile to come to the bass side during the summer. I really enjoy doing it, but have been some what hesitant because I do not tie many streamers. I really got the itch to get out this weekend, so I was forced to hit the vice.

I tied two that have both been successful for me in the past when I floated with a buddy. The first is one that I named for him last summer called The Triple P or Packing Peanut Popper. Here is the link to tie it...Triple P

The other streamer that absolutely did damage on the Lehigh was called The Sculpin With No Name. Here is the step by step Sculpin

I added eyes to this pattern and covered the head in Clear Cure Glue.

We floated today and the SWNN produced again. About ten casts at the first run on the Lehigh it got slammed. I thought it was a nice smallie until I got it close and it was about a 15 inch brown. So, that pattern obviously works on trout to.

Hope you guys like them and add them to your warm water box.

Attach file:

 Packing Peanut Popper.jpg (93.36 KB)

 Sculpin with no name.jpg (104.97 KB)

 Front Sculpin.jpg (95.35 KB)

