

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Valley Creek Surprise 7-14-13

Re: Valley Creek Surprise 7-14-13

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2013/7/15 18:12:55

URL:

Quote:

Swattie87 wrote:

I wouldn't worry about the Trout in Valley...being eaten by Bass anyway.

Agree.

Not a problem. Most PA trout streams, in my experience, have low order and seasonal populations of warm water fishes and some streams that tend to warm more (ie are consistently in the mid to upper 60s in summer) can sometimes have many bass, usually smallmouths by mid summer. However, spotty groups of LM bass are not unusual as well (although the one in your pic is large). Pickerel are there too - again, usually widespread but rarely numerous. The migration of WW fishes into trout streams is less common on the colder limestoners but you'll see bass, sunnies, and pickerel in them too.