That time of year will be here before we know it. This year I need to pass the torch of the planning to someone else. My wife is due at the end of October with our son and the JAM has typically been in the first 2 weeks of November. So, there's a slim to none chance I'll be able to make it. So if someone wants to step forward and plan it this year, I'm sure many would appreciate it. If anyone needs my assistance just let me know. Hoping to make a few trips up there this year, but we'll see how that goes when the time comes.
