I used the dates of Thursday Oct 3 - Sunday Oct 6 as a general group of dates. Every year, I try to make it up on Wednesday so I can get things squared away for the group. Since Josh still has 4 1/2 weeks of vacation left, we've talked about heading up early. We have actually considered heading up Monday September 30th and just making a week of it. At the worst, I think we'll head up on Tuesday. I'll guess that the Yinzer caravan might make it a bit early too.

Martin,

The monster is 7600 yards. But... that is measured to the front of each green. The greens are 45-60 yards deep. I once calculated it to be somewhere around 8190 from the back tees to the center of each green. I do enjoy taking a beating on the course but if it's raining or standing water in the fairways, I'm not playing it all the way back. Last time we played, it was ponded water in each and every fairway. From 7000 yards, it seemed like 7 million yards. LMAO

Phil,

You need to find more friends that are already married. You have to pick up 3 part time jobs to pay for all the wedding gifts you're buying.
