Ventured into the Donegal Ck CRFFO Area today. At 10 AM it was still 19 deg C or about 67 deg F. Plenty cold for fishing. Fish showed no signs of stress throughout mid-day. This stream would certainly provide an option for those relatively close by anglers looking for a good possibility for warm weather fishing. The fish population is good at the moment, particularly wild browns, with a few fall stocked advanced fingerling present as well...now running 10 to 12 inches or thereabouts. Handled about 20 RT in about 380 yds.
