TB: To re-iterate, I mention Rosgen because he has a well-thought-out stream classification system which is very handy for comparing apples and oranges, so to speak. I am indifferent as to the efficacy of his stream restoration work. I have seen his techniques (not his work) succeed and fail from place to place. I have never seen a project he designed and implemented, so I cannot say whether or not his techniques were misapplied in the failed projects I have observed.
