Beast,

Aren't you trying to make it up with us in Oct? I have to clear it with my boss tomorrow or Friday but I plan to make a 2-3 day trip up at the very end of this month or the beginning of August. I'll wait for the heat to break....not for the fishes sake but for mine. Too hot to drag a boat around in waders.

Yeah, that was the part of one of the responses up there where I said, "I'm interested", then a comma, and something about slate drakes. Basically, a grammatical murder scene, resulting in incoherence.

At any rate, yeah I am almost certainly going to go up in October, and I am looking to make some exploratory runs up there soon. I know the game lands(299) is open, and I saw there is some access right around the Cannonsville outflow.

Can't really ignore 48 degree water on the east coast any longer. This heat wave has pushed me over the edge. I'm not really a brookie man, lol.
