The problem I have is you got guys who only have a few yrs under there belt in this sport. They enter a comp or two and now there experts. What ever happend to putting in your time and paying your dues before you can get the glory. There is a lot more to fly fishing then dragging heavy nymphs on the bottom with a hot spot and flashy ribbing. I'm sure the comps can be fun and you can learn a lot but I think some people let it go to there head. Just my opinion. I don't think its all bad.
