Great video by the way. What do you use for the background to get the light blue color. Great step by step as well.

I agree all personal preference on the extra set of rubber legs. It is a great pattern to manipulate any way you want to. I use it a lot as pretty much a weight to get my main fly down, and down fast. The extra weight i put on is so I can fish faster, deeper water. Since I use fur it takes it slightly a bit longer to get down as the chenille.

What other colors do you have success with. I have yet to tie them with chennile and was wondering your go to colors. I purchased a ton of different colors from pearl and crystal to barred color variations. I did come across a barred color that is yellow with dark amber barring that i have been anxious to try.
