nice story.

i have some of my grandads cane Richard Walker sweetwater rods - the old hexagonal type, and i know that one sad day soon i will inherit my dad's rods and reels (garcia, mitchell, Hardy, shakespeare..) and his vest and bag.

I don't look forward to that day, but afterwards i will treasure them whether i fish with them or keep them on a shelf to look at - and I hope that with no son myself or no chance of one, that one day I will find a young lad with a keen interest in fly fishing that I can pass my gear on to.
