

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : 8lb bass uncatchable?

8lb bass uncatchable?

Author: : kenbo5733

Date: : 2013/7/19 13:23:59

URL:

I was out fishing the wissahickon creek last evening at one very remote location very far upstream and its a very deep pool probably 10ft at the deepest, lots of chubs and huge sunnies are over there and some good bass too so far the biggest I got out of there was 16 inches but my brother told me theres an 8lber under these roots hanging over the pool so I went back the nest day to check it out and there he was he looked about 26 inches or so I was about 8 ft from him so I got a good look threw some flies at him and he didn't budge tried some soft plectics on my spin reel like a senko and he still didn't even swim towards and I put it right in front of him, so last nite I spotted him again same spot and put a live night crawler in front of his nose and he just stared at it, I usually don't use bait but a 8lb largemouth in the wissahickon was an exception anyway I got really frustrated because he didn't take it and it was right in front of him and I only dropped it in front of him when I saw him because otherwise the sunnies would attack the worm, so if anybody has an idea on how to land this monster please any advice, thank you