

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Bass flies

Re: Bass flies

Author: : Coughlin

Date: : 2013/7/20 9:11:49

URL:

Hi,

I'd go with a popper:

I'd take a bass hook (any reasonable size) tie the olive marabou for a tail, Grizzly hackle flared outward and canted slightly downward to drag in the water as legs, Body of black Chennile wrapped 5/8ths-3/4s the way toward the eye. Olive deer hair spun to the eye. Tie off. Then shape a torpedo head, slightly flared collar just behind, and behind collar trim hair to chennile dimension. It should sink slightly at the rear with lots of swishy action and bob up front.

Good luck!

Coughlin