Swattie,

A beautiful RB - I just love 'em, they're my favorite sunfish by a wide margin.

I agree. The red in the tail edges reminds me of wild Brown Trout. I love that they're the native stream sunfish in our streams that drain towards the Atlantic too.

By next year I figure those 2010 fish should be about 10" on average...once a Smallie reaches that size it's plenty of fun on a light outfit. They're tough fish...they survived the 2011 floods as probably 4 inchers or so, so hopefully they keep going strong.
