I've fished VC several times over the past two weeks. Tight line nymphing in faster water with small caddis larva produced smaller browns. Two days ago I fished a size 18 ant and caught 5 nice browns from 7AM to 8:30AM. They were smashing it off the surface. I couldn't miss a take if I had tried. After around 9 or 10 the surface activity dropped off but I still had some takes (which I missed).
